Yes, they must take time (vac, personal, lunch whatever) for the time out of the lab. Sick time and making it up are not options.

I am disturbed that Dan is checking other people's time though, unless he's covering for Della in her absence.

Julie, Dan sent me this email about time for Monday. Unless you told people they didn't have to take the time for Della's husband services I would expect everyone who went to take some type of time. Vac,sick make it up, etc. Let me know before I send the time sheets down Friday. CBS

Good morning Chuck. For Monday, some of us had marked down the time that we were gone at the service for Della's husband on the time sheets. But I noticed that not everyone did and I just wanted to make sure which we were doing because I didn't want to short myself if we weren't counting that time. Thanks.
